Jamie Campbell represented New Zealand in 1973 and throughout the 80s which included attending the World Series in the United States, at Tacoma, in 1980. Jamie represented Southland from 1972 to 1989 and played an astonishing 38 years for the Demons club, starting in 1970.

The trophy was donated to Jamie’s sons, Jonathan, William and Tim to honour their father. The trophy was made and donated by team-mate Anaru Chalmers.

The trophy is voted for by the Southland men's team, management and scorers. The winner is decided on performances at representative tournaments and over the club season.
